The context of tertiary training and study

Across the tertiary sector there are many students who will experience mental ill health at some time during their studies.

In the vast majority of cases, despite the personal impacts, students can receive treatment and support that enables them to maintain their studies (e.g. GP, MH practitioner, treatment plan, medication, counselling, etc). Some may require reasonable adjustment/s in their course.

However, the context of todays session focuses on the small number of instances where a students ill health is so disruptive to their thinking, thoughts and/or behaviours that they are unable to engage and participate in their chosen program.

"a state of wellbeing in which the individual realises his or her own abilities, can cope with the normal stresses of life, can work productively and fruitfully, and is able to make a contribution to his or her community." World Health Organisation 2007

TAFE QUEENSLAND BRISBANE – Managing complex and challenging mental ill health situations

What do we mean by Mental Health?

The focus here is on 'ability to cope with the normal stresses and be productive (in VET training and/or Higher Education)

What do you typically see?

- anxiety, depression, bi-polar
- personality disorder, schizophrenia, PTSD

What do we mean – challenging behaviour?

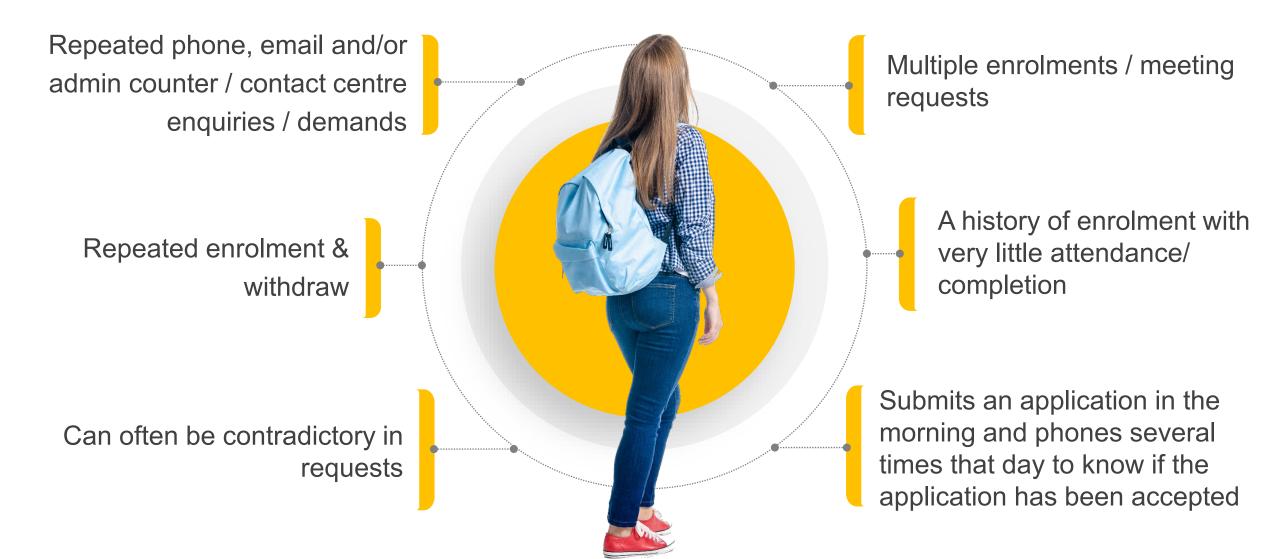

Beyond or outside the 'norms' of mental ill health that is commonly seen in the student population

Despite reasonable adjustment/s and inclusive teaching there is an inability to conform...

...to expected behaviour, participation and engagement that is required to be successful in the program

Observations – enquiry / enrolment stage

TAFE QUEENSLAND BRISBANE – Managing complex and challenging mental ill health situations

Observations - during study

Attends sporadically but doesn't participate

Disruptive in-class behaviour or behaviour that becomes a 'performance'

Little awareness as to the impacts of their behaviour

Minimal attendance but numerous emails

Lengthy late night emails (demanding / aggressive / fixated on a historical issue)

Demanding behaviour – why won't you help me or re-visit content (challenges to your integrity)

Lack of reasoning or ability to engage in rational discussion

Intense or heightened emotions

Impulsive and appear to lead chaotic lives

Rigid / inflexible

Observations - informal / formal intervention

Little insight or recognition of the concerns being raised

Denial of any issues or concerns, e.g. you haven't attended any of the classes – yes I have Dismissive of the teachers concerns – that was dealt with, I did that, it was resolved, why do you keep bringing that back up?

May state they will continue with the course (or re-enrol) despite all the concerns presented to them

Can appear angry towards the organisation or individual staff

Observations – abilities and limitations

Often able to:

Live independently / participate in activities of daily living

Travel and access services in the local community

Make appointments / navigate short processes / including enrolment / registration / interviews Can appear confused and frustrated or have difficulty understanding straightforward information / instruction

Can be articulate, intelligent, factual

Remember: Mental ill health does not discriminate

Observations – limitations in study

Often fall down when personal application is required:

Unable to apply themselves to the activities of study

Unable to commence, let alone, maintain focus and attention

Unable to follow through on instructions

Unable to engage with others and 'conform'

High levels of stamina and persistence for complaints / grievances (historic) but very little ability, if any, to apply themselves to study.

Context - reminders for ourselves

We are not here to address, correct or right the wrongs in peoples lives

We are not here to endure on-going unacceptable behaviour

We are not here to diagnose mental ill health

We will likely never know the full-story about a person or their challenges

Based on our experience, it is understandable, to fully expect the person to fail

TAFE QUEENSLAND BRISBANE – Managing complex and challenging mental ill health situations

What we need to do

- Be consistent and calm
- Do not become dragged into irrelevant side issues
- Keep the message on track study tasks and goals
- Address the concerns sooner rather than later
  - behaviour that is unacceptable will not go away, it will continue and impact more people
- All normal Reasonable Adjustment should be applied as per any other student with support needs or difficulty participating
- Maintain clear boundaries individually and as a team – be aware of 'splitting behaviours'
- Do advise that behaviour is unacceptable when it occurs

The student perspective – What it can feel like?

Think of a time when you have felt particularly aggrieved. Perhaps you were treated unfairly, were ripped-off or had a complaint that was handled badly or ignored.

The student perspective - continued

Often the individual is not in a position to see the reasoning

They may have very black and white thinking

Difficulty compromising

Desire to do what everyone is else is doing – their peers are studying, getting jobs, having relationships

Not able to influence their mental ill health

 It disrupt a person's life, interferes with their thoughts, emotions, behaviours, relationships, and day-to-day functioning

Exhausting – physically and mentally

Often results in confusion, fear, causes additional anxiety and wider health impacts

How do we manage informal conversations?

- 1 Be explicit with instructions / actions required and stipulate a timeframe
  - Bring the conversation back to the here and now
  - Avoid statements that are not required
- 4 Trying to demonstrate that you see things from their perspective can fail (and be interpreted differently)
  - I can understand how you feel
  - I'm sorry this is causing you stress
  - Keep copies / notes of all communication, incidents, concerns raised

How do we manage emails?

- We do not have to respond to rants / or outpouring of emotions
  - except where a threat is implied or explicit, or
  - there is a request for information / action
- Keep copies of all communication received
- Do not get pulled into justifying the teaching and learning process
- Written communication needs to be brief and factual

How do we manage meetings?

Before the meeting:

- Be prepared, have copies of emails, incidents, reports, attendance records, assessment results
- Have a documented timeline to talk to
- Set an agreed time (with a colleague)
- Controlling I can't attend that day/ time

At the meeting:

- Set the scene reason for the meeting
- Be prepared for deflection / deviation and keep bringing the conversation back to the issue (firm but fair)
- Address false or inaccurate statements
- Clearly state expectations re behaviour clarify what it is that is not acceptable
- Clearly state the actions / outcomes from the meeting and follow this up in writing

TAFE QUEENSLAND BRISBANE – Managing complex and challenging mental ill health situations

Post-meeting

- De-brief with a colleague / manager
- Step back from the students storm'
- Give yourself some credit for managing the situation
- Action the outcomes ASAP

Reflect - were you fair?

- 1. Have adjustments been provided?
- 2. Has the student had ample opportunity to be successful?
- 3. Are there any relevant unaddressed concerns?
