

Universal Design Education

Pathways 13

Professor Marnie Hughes-Warrington

1 December 2016

I have come to the end of so many old things

I have come to the end of the world to wait for this Mountain to flash

Flash like a cloud struggling with light

Is education enabling or disabling?

On 1 June 2017, ANU will close the Manning Clark Theatres.

They will be demolished.

80% of our students have the Manning Clark Theatres in their timetables.

Have I come to the end of the world?

Have I come to the end of the world?

End

- One to many live
- Listen, discuss, assess
- Constrained seating
- Transition support to large classes
- Accessing of content via intermediary (eg interpreting or live relay)

Beginning

- One to many live disappears or proportion changes
- Cannot assume sequential accessing of listen, discuss, assess
- Disaggregation
- disintermediation

Disaggregation and Disintermediation

NIKE WOMEN'S HACKATHON: HACK LIKE A GIRL

The greatest challenge of education is not to be defined by who we do not teach

Can we build our teaching on care rather than habit or regulation?

Universal Design Education

- This is our space: accessibility is a design ethic, not a compliance check
- Improvement comes from exploring student and staff satisfaction
- Can I reengage in teaching for a new age: commitment to professional learning for all teachers

Stage One | Illustrative Plan

Poem credit:
Dorothy Porter, 'The Flashing Mountain', Crete 1996